Brother's new plea over unsolved murder of 35-year-old

UNSOLVED CASE: Kevin Macey

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE brother of a woman murdered in Harlow 13 years ago has made an impassioned plea for help to catch her killers.

Freddie Brinkley was speaking as officers from Essex Police's cold case team launched a fresh appeal for information on the anniversary of the death of mother-of-three Beverley Brinkley.

Ms Brinkley, 35, died in hospital four days after her badly beaten body was found in the lobby of a block of flats at The Stow on the evening of Sunday, February 2, 2003.

"Beverley never got to see her daughters grow into women and have children of their own," said Mr Brinkley, 51. "She would have loved being a grandmother and would have adored them."

"I'm hoping that now 13 years have passed since she was killed someone will feel able to pass on information to the police that they may have been too scared to say back then.

"Please help our family see justice done."

Despite an extensive police investigation, no-one was charged with her murder.

This week Kevin Macey, head of Serious Crime Review, said it remained one of the "relatively few" unresolved homicides in Essex.

Council's battle to balance the books

Budgets under pressure after Government cuts

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Council's finance chief has said the authority is "just about keeping it's head above the water" after Government cuts of more than £1m.

The authority's cabinet agreed a 1.5 per cent increase to its portion of the council tax bill at a meeting tonight (Thursday).

The rise - which will be rubber-stamped by the full council next week - will allow the authority to continue to fund popular community services including Harlow Playhouse, Pets' Corner and the annual fireworks despite a £1.1m reduction in the funding it receives from Government.

Council leader Jon Clempner said: "We are doing the right thing. This is a sustainable budget for the long-term."

The Labour-run authority will also freeze parking charges at neighbourhood shopping areas and retain one-hour free.

But 300 households will be affected by plans to change the weekly nappy and incontinence waste collections to fortnightly and there will also be a 50 per cent hike in the cost of using the council's heavy squad service.

"It's doom and gloom and we're just about keeping our heads above the water," Cllr Mike Danvers told the meeting.

The portfolio holder for resources added: "There are no cuts and no redundancies but there's a price to be paid with the council tax increase."

Conservative opposition leader Andrew Johnson raised concerns about whether incidents of flytipping would increase as a result of the changing.

But Cllr Clempner refuted this and stated that there is no evidence to suggest this would happen.

Since 2011/12 the council's main grant from Government, which funds nearly half of services has reduced by more than 65 per cent. It expects to make further cuts of £3m up to 2021.

A total of £416,000 will be added to the regeneration fund to support the economic regeneration of the town centre and £787,000 will be transferred to the Discretionary Services Fund to help fund increased running costs and support for community services.

For a report of tonight's meeting, visit the Star website at www.harlowstar.co.uk.

Reduction in rents leaves less to spend on services

COUNCIL house rents in Harlow are set to go down but there will be less money for housing services under budget proposals.

From the start of April the average weekly rent for tenants will be cut from £93.60 to £92.66 in line with Government legislation to reduce rents by one per cent over the next four years.

This change, however, will leave Harlow Council with a budget shortfall of almost £13m up until 2020.

The authority says it will not cut services but will spend less on its external garage programme, garage painting and repairs and project management fees for modernising homes.

Essential

However, essential works to improve fire safety in blocks of flats, energy efficiency measures, replacing communal heating systems and installing carbon monoxide alarms to meet new legislation will be funded.

Other housing-related proposals include:

- Garage rents to increase by 42p a week to £8.78.
- The average weekly service charge for tenants will be £2.05.
- Communal heating charges for tenants on average will go down £5.30 a week. For leaseholders the average charge for communal heating will go down by £2.73.
- The average communal heating charge for supported housing tenants will go down by £3.82.

Councillor Rod Truan, portfolio holder for housing, said: "In the last three years some of the council's achievements include a five-year £100m Housing Investment Programme which has so far funded 34,688 improvements to council homes helping to improve tenants' lives. This programme will now be reduced.

"We've also started the first programme for more than 25 years to build council homes for rent with 18 homes completed. However, our long-term ambitions to build more council homes is currently on hold."

Growth spurt for baby shop

A SHOP selling new and nearly-new baby goods has grown up after moving to bigger premises.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon cut the ribbon to open the new premises of Quick Stop Baby Shop in Bush Fair, Harlow.

"Originally, I had the idea of the shop through my love of car boot sales," said owner Jamie Smart, 38.

"I like to have a chat with people, and I thought this could be a good opportunity as toys can be a lot of money."

The shop stocks a range of toys, prams and accessories.

Ms Smart added: "It was around seven years ago that I started with market stalls and then around two years ago I opened my first shop in The Store before expanding to my present location.

"It has gone very well so far."

Seven-year-old organised tournament with target of £1,000

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A FOOTBALL-mad youngster has raised hundreds of pounds for charity by organising his own soccer tournament.

Seven-year-old Alfie Nottage, of Broadfield, Harlow, arranged and played in the event for his team - Ridsden Wood Under 8s - after his great uncle Steve Barclay was diagnosed with cancer.

The Christmas Eve games raised £684.20 for St Clare Hospice and Cancer Research UK.

Sadly, Mr Barclay passed away on New Year's Day and now Alfie's family are appealing for more donations to reach his target of £1,000.

Alfie's father Ben, 34, said: "Steve and his wife Sue used to pick him up from school once a week and they would often play football together."

Heartfelt

"Alfie wanted to raise as much money as he could to support Cancer Research UK and St Clare Hospice who looked after Steve. They were very close and when Steve was ill Alfie said he wanted to do this game on Christmas Eve."

In a heartfelt letter written to his teammates asking them to play, Tottenham Hotspur fan Alfie said: "Please can you help me raise money for St Clare Hospice because they look after my uncle Steve. He loves football and supports Chelsea."

Mr Nottage said: "The game was completely his idea and he wrote to the manager of his team asking if it could be arranged."

"He initially wanted to charge everyone £100 to play in the tournament but his mother thought a £5

donation from every player would be more reasonable."

More than 20 youngsters turned up for the tournament and Alfie played in several of the games, each of which lasted for five minutes.

All the youngsters were presented with medals while a raffle was held afterwards to generate more cash.

Mr Nottage added: "It was a good day for all of us and Alfie had a lot of fun."

St Clare Hospice is backing the appeal to reach Alfie's target of £1,000 in Mr Barclay's memory.

Van theft leaves rock school roadie sidelined

A ROADIE for Harlow Rock School is appealing for the return of his van after it was stolen on Tuesday evening.

Self-employed furniture installer Martin Elven returned to his home in Perry Springs, Harlow, after a night out with his wife to find the white Ford Transit van, registration NL59 KGX, had been taken.

GONE: The van which went missing from outside Martin Elven's home

"I had a wonderful evening out and came home to see a space where the van had been," he said. "I was distraught as I depend on this van for my work and I may have to cancel or postpone jobs that I had booked in. I can't work now."

"It is also the van that I use to shunt all the amps and Rock School equipment so it could have a negative impact on that."

The Rock School has tweeted appeals for anyone with information about the theft, which took place between 6-9.30pm, to contact Essex Police on the non-emergency 101 number.

Man is ordered to pay compensation after dog attack

A DOG which bit a woman and attacked other dogs could be put down if it is not kept under control.

The Staffordshire Bull Terrier called Jack was involved in three separate incidents in three weeks, but despite that magistrates decided against issuing an immediate destruction order.

Instead they imposed a contingency order which means the dog will not be put to sleep provided it is kept muzzled and on a lead while out in public.

Steven Bundock, 48, of Rundells, Harlow, pleaded guilty at Chelmsford Magistrates Court to being in charge of a dog which was dangerously out of control. He was given a 12-month community order with a 20-day rehabilitation programme and ordered to pay a total of £730 in compensation.

He was also banned from keeping a dog for 12 months.

Animal

The court was told the dog did not belong to Bundock but was owned by someone who had been staying with him and who had since moved away.

Philip Pearson, prosecuting, told the court that on January 10 Jack had attacked another dog and bitten the wrist of its owner when she tried to protect her animal. As a result she needed hospital treatment for her injury and was left facing a vet bill of £680.

Mr Pearson said Jack had been involved in two previous incidents, neither of which were the subject of prosecution.

In the first an elderly man had been knocked to the ground after an incident involving two dogs.

The second happened five days later: "It attacked one dog and went to attack another, causing the owner to jump on some bins," said Mr Pearson.

Emma Davenport, representing Bundock, said he hoped Jack could be re-homed.

No solution to kerb parking

SIR, Inspector Paul Maleary's comments on pavement parking are all very well if you live in an area built with adequate parking facilities (Star, January 28).

I live in an area where the road is not wide enough for two vehicles to park opposite each other so we have to put two wheels on the pavement.

Most of the residents who live in our cul-de-sac do adhere to this parking and leave enough space to accommodate prams, buggies, immobility scooters and other pedestrian traffic, but there are one or two people who couldn't care less about other people.

Also, we have people from the college and shoppers who park around here with no thought to others.

If we didn't park the way we do, refuse wagons, emergency vehicles and delivery vehicles would not be able to access the area to do whatever is necessary.

When these areas were built there wasn't any thought given to the future of the motor car or any of the development of the town, such as second and third generations and immigration.

This is a problem that has nowhere to go and no immediate solution.

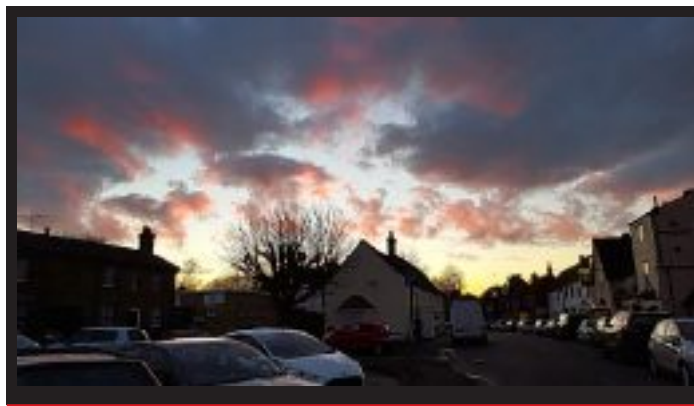

Rod Teese
The Dashes, Harlow

Three Es plan is unworkable

SIR, I was born and bred in Harlow and currently live in Ladyshot. I fully understand that parking and finding a place to park is a major problem as I believe the town was built for one car parking space for every other house.

I have four children and when pushing a pram on many occasions I was unable to pass cars parked on the pavement and even had to walk on the grass or in the road. It must be even more dangerous if you have disabilities or use a wheelchair.

Some years ago we received information on a scheme called the parking improvement plan which included proposals to make the road/pathways safer.

READER'S PHOTO

■ This week's photo of a sunset over Old Harlow was taken by Anne Small, of Penthurst. "My husband and I were returning from the town centre and on turning into Market Street this was the amazing sunset that took my breath away," she writes. "It was a wonderful, brief moment in time and within minutes it was gone."

■ If you have a photo you have taken in or around Harlow and would like to see featured on this page, all you have to is email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description and details of where and when it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address.

We would lose a small amount of green space for further parking spaces. I have no idea what happened to this plan.

Within the Waterhouse Moor estate an array of hardstandings were installed to take the cars off this main road and bus route.

Since then myself and many of my neighbours have had our vehicles damaged as a result of being hit by buses and other due to lack of parking.

Inspector Maleary's 3Es plan is, in my opinion, unworkable. If you start fining people for parking on the kerb they will park on the road which, on a bus route, will create mayhem. If they enforce this it proves the police and local authority are only interested in making more money through fining people.

Jeff Clarke
Ladyshot, Harlow

Punishing the working class

SIR, Harlow MP Robert Halfon is apparently not satisfied with having supported the bedroom tax and is now enthusiastically throwing his weight behind a more far-reaching attempt to dismantle working class communities.

As the letter in last week's Star makes clear ("Need for more council homes", January 28), the Government's new Housing Bill would put an end to council housing as we know it.

More than a few people in Harlow and across the land have reached the end of their lives as tenants of the council houses in which they raised their children. Strong communities have been built upon decades of continuous occupancy.

However, one of the stated aims of the bedroom tax is to encourage housing association and council tenants dependant upon Housing Benefit to move out once their children have left home. It therefore acts to break up long-standing communities.

The new legislation would be even more destructive of community cohesion and stability. Council houses could never again become permanent family homes as new council tenancies would last only five years.

The resulting insecurity would have adverse effects on family life and would also weaken tenant solidarity, as some of those with temporary tenancies would almost inevitably resent those with permanent tenancies.

The new Housing Bill would further undermine the camaraderie of council tenants by introducing different rent levels for identical properties. Council tenants would be obliged to provide proof of income and rents would be greater for those in higher-paid jobs.

This mechanism would act as a disincentive to seek jobs with bigger wage packets. It would impede the mobility of labour and exert an upward pressure on wage levels.

Rent increases are detrimental to the interests of both workers and employers. The Housing Bill would exacerbate the economically dysfunctional effects of the system of housing in this country.

In Mr Halfon's brave new Tory world, council tenants will be second-class citizens required by law to inform the bureaucrats in the local civic centre or town hall whenever they have a pay rise or a pay cut. Perhaps he will design to tell us why he supports a bill that will punish working class families and deconstruct working class communities.

At a loss over new junction

SIR, With regard to the proposed junction 7a on the M11 at Harlow, an extract from Essex Highways' website says: "Harlow has significant traffic congestion problems during peak times which will get worse as Harlow grows."

I am at a complete loss as to why there is such a desire, an appetite, an urgency even to build this new junction. Since the population of Harlow has not increased for the past 20 years I guess there must be some disproportionate growth in traffic volumes.

At the public consultation in Old Harlow last July, Essex Highways openly admitted that far from easing traffic levels, a new junction 7a would have the opposite effect and traffic volumes would increase to a higher level than it would without the junction.

I heard a whisper that Essex Highways had never counted a single vehicle during its studies so I sent an email to Essex County Council asking what mechanism it used to record traffic volumes and whether it had completed the air pollution assessments. The automated response said I would be contacted within seven days; three months later they have replied saying the results were not made public but in any case have now been superseded and will be available in June/July.

Last week saw a consultation on junction 7a at St John's ARC in Old Harlow but it was by invitation only, which simply confirms that the concerns of local residents are, as always, not welcome.

Allan White
Back Lane, Sheering

This isn't what residents want

SIR, When is Essex County Council going to listen to the residents and give those who pay them the best solution for the position of junction 7a for Harlow and the surrounding villages?

They seem hellbent on going ahead with negotiations with the Sheering/Old Harlow option, despite the fact the public have clearly indicated they do not want the junction in this place.

This was proven in the publication of the results of the last consultation on the county council's website. It highlighted the public were not happy with the proposals, yet we have a private meeting last week for those who are owners of land or require new access, to allow this option to go ahead.

Is this not being presumptuous to the acceptance by residents and an insult to those who do not consider the junction as proposed to be the right solution to resolve traffic congestion?

One must ask what is the point of the next consultation in June this year? Was this timed to take place after the May elections? Perhaps I am being cynical in believing they are playing political games with the public.

Come on, Essex County Highways, listen to the residents of the area affected. Think again or you may experience the power of the population when it comes to the elections.

The gift of life in 60 minutes

SIR, At the start of the year Star readers will have considered giving things up like unhealthy food or alcohol. But you can change your life by choosing to give.

Giving blood is amazing – you can save or improve the lives of up to three people each time you donate. We need more than 6,000 people to donate blood every day to meet the needs of desperately ill hospital patients.

Blood and platelets are not just used after accidents. They are used for patients with cancer, anaemia, childbirth complications, and in a wide variety of life-saving procedures.

Less than three per cent of people aged 17-70 donated blood last year.

If you've never given blood before, register to donate blood and book an appointment to donate in Essex at www.blood.co.uk.

Donating only takes an hour of your time.

In brief

MP welcomes move to push apprenticeships

HARLOW: Government plans to make schools give the same level of promotion to apprenticeships as a university education have been welcomed by the town's MP.

Robert Halfon has been a vociferous champion of apprenticeships since entering the House of Commons, arguing they should be held in the same regard as a place at university.

Last year he chaired the Demos Commission on Apprenticeships with Labour peer Lord Glasman, which highlighted the need for schools to promote apprenticeships.

"I think they're a fantastic way for young people to empower themselves by training in a specialised industry and obtain the skills that they need for a fulfilling career," said Mr Halfon, who was the first MP to take on a full-time apprentice in Parliament.

"It is important for secondary school teachers to encourage students into apprentices," he said. "I have made it my mission to change the way we regard apprenticeships."

Pair guilty of neglect

COURT: A Harlow couple pleaded guilty to charges of child neglect when they appeared before Chelmsford magistrates court on Monday.

The 31-year-old man and 24-year-old woman, who cannot be named for legal reasons, admitted neglecting their three children.

The man was fined £600 and given a 12-month community order with a 10-day rehabilitation activity requirement. The woman was also given a 12-month community order with a 20-day rehabilitation requirement and to complete 90 hours of unpaid work.

They were both ordered to pay £243 in compensation, £85 court costs and a £60 victim surcharge.

Three hurt in crash

HARLOW: Three people were taken to hospital after a two-vehicle crash in Southern Way on Tuesday.

Two Vauxhall Corsas were involved in the accident at the junction with Kingsmoor Road shortly after 4.30pm.

Firefighters used cutting equipment to release one of the drivers who was trapped in his vehicle.

Petition calls on county council to investigate traffic safety concerns

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

PARENTS have launched a petition calling for Essex County Council to improve safety outside a Harlow primary school.

They are calling for County Hall to study traffic on Tawneys Road outside William Martin Primary School, and consider what safety measures could be put in place.

Fear

Although the primary school has a lollypop lady and a crossing, parents fear that it is only a matter of time before there is an accident.

Parent Mark Ingall, who has been helping to collect signatures, said: "It's vital that Essex [County Council] take their responsibilities seriously and provide us with a safe road side environment before it is too late."

CHANGE NEEDED: The petition calls for safety improvements at William Martin School

The petition which was launched by Keely Maynard together with other parents has already gathered more than 200 signatures.

They fear it is a case of not if, but when an accident happens following a serious collision on Tawneys Road near the primary school in November last year.

Mr Ingall, who is standing in the Bush Fair ward in May's Harlow Council elections for Labour, said: "When I heard that parents of children at William Martin School were starting a petition to ask Essex County Council to study the traffic on Tawneys Road, I was keen to help."

Community

"My daughter attends the school and this is exactly the sort of community initiative that I'm keen to support & encourage," added the father-of-three.

"Its issues like this, that impact on ordinary local people's lives that have motivated me to stand as Labour council candidate for Bush Fair."

"Something needs to be done before there is a serious accident and someone is hurt," said Mr Ingall.

Low intensity workouts are giving town a fitness boost

A HARLOW councillor is encouraging more people to adopt a healthier lifestyle by improving their levels of fitness.

According to a survey carried out by Essex County Council in 2014, more than a quarter of adults in Harlow are obese while only half are physically active.

"I am concerned by these figures," said Cllr Karen

Clempner, whose husband Jon is leader of Harlow Council. "Harlow is worse than the national average and the UK as a whole has the worst adult obesity rates in Europe."

After attending a low intensity Fit 4 All class at the Latton Bush Centre on Monday, she said such initiatives were important in boosting the health of the town.

"The exercises classes are for all ages and abilities," she said. "I was very impressed that if you are not used to exercise the trainer has easier workouts available that would still work the same muscles as more active people."

Class leader Lee Morgan, 27, said: "Looking around I have seen a lot of obesity in Harlow so the figures are not a shock and it's a really big problem."

Mr Morgan, who leads classes on Mondays at 10.30am and Wednesdays at 11am, added: "People have got fitter and the group have become friends; they always go for coffee after we finish."

"Exercise can have both a physical and social benefit."

HOOKED ON BOOKS: Children from Cooks Spinney

New library can nurture bookworms

A NEW school library is helping pupils at a Harlow primary to discover the joys of reading for pleasure.

Cooks Spinney Academy, in Cooks Spinney, recently combined the infant and junior school halls, which has freed up a large learning space.

"We are trying to turn all of our space into learning areas," said headteacher Stuart Pope. "By moving classrooms around as we did in the summer, we have created large areas we can make great use of."

"The former lower hall is now our library and all reference material is now found there. As there is not a book shop in town, the only way we are going to develop a love of books among our young people is to encourage that passion at school."

Teachers are hoping the colourful displays and book-logging system will combine to create an inspirational and practical setting in which the children can read.

Mr Pope added: "Each class will be timetabled to spend time in the new library."

Primary's progress is hailed by inspectors

Ofsted team pleased by improvements at academy

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A PRIMARY school which two years ago received a critical report from Ofsted inspectors has been praised for making progress.

Kingsmoor Academy, in Ployters Road, Harlow, was found to require improvement in all four key areas of inspection – achievement of pupils, quality of teaching, behaviour and safety of pupils and leadership/management – following its last full inspection in June 2014.

Address

Every six months since then Ofsted inspectors have visited the school to check on the progress it has been making to address the issues that were raised.

During their visit in December the inspection team met with school principal Lesley Brennan and members of staff as well as governors and pupils before monitoring classes and scrutinising paperwork.

Afterwards, the school received a report in which it was commended for reorganising the leadership structure, introducing fun learning days and giving teachers the opportunity to offer more feedback. "Although they cannot change the last Ofsted grade of 'requires improvement', they monitor how we are getting on," said Mrs Brennan.

"This time they said we are making the required improvements and that we are ready for our next full inspection."

Mrs Brennan, who took over as principal in September last year, now feels the school is in a good position for its next inspection due in June.

"There is still much more to do but we know what we need to achieve to continue to improve,"

she said.

"We have high expectations for all of our pupils. We want them to achieve their very best, to feel a strong sense of belonging and to take pride in their achievements."

"We believe that once all of our plans are in place we will have what it takes to become 'good'."

Pupil's back from land of Oz for a visit

A FORMER Harlow student who travelled halfway round the world after leaving school ten years ago has been inspiring the current crop of pupils with tales of his globe-trotting adventures.

Mark Lewis recently returned to Stewards Academy, in Parnall Road, to share his experiences of backpacking and working in New Zealand and Australia.

"I feel very privileged to have had so many great opportunities and still more great adventures to look forward to," said the 26-year-old.

Hooked

"After leaving Stewards I went to college and university but after six months I realised tertiary education was not for me at that stage of my life. But this did not stop me. I set out to New Zealand and I was hooked. I have now lived there for four years."

After a short visit to the UK – his first in four years – he plans to travel to Canada and Japan before returning to New Zealand.

"I was not an A* student and everything comes down to the strength and confidence given to me by the wonderful teachers," said Mark. "They didn't just give me an education, they taught me how to be the best person I could be."

Dinner and dance in denim and diamonds

HARLOW: A charity dinner dance at which the dress code for guests is diamonds and denim will be held next weekend to raise money for the breast cancer clinical trials unit in Harlow and Epping.

The party is being held at the Manor of Groves Hotel in High Wych on Saturday, February 13 to raise funds for the unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital and St Margaret's Hospital.

Tickets cost £65 and include a drink on arrival and a three-course dinner with wine followed by entertainment. There will also be an auction and raffle.

Mick Mahon, who is one of the event organisers, said: "It's a slightly relaxed but still a dress to impress night out for Valentine's. In fact, a lot of the men will still be wearing a black tie but with jeans while for the ladies it's as glam as they like with diamonds – real or not."

To book tickets call (01279) 827857, email pahbreasttrials@outlook.com, or search for The Princess Alexandra Hospital Charitable Trust – Breast Unit on Facebook.

Manslaughter charge

HARLOW: A man has been charged with manslaughter following the death of a 52-year-old at the Park Inn Hotel in Harlow in December.

William Wareham, from Harlow, died in hospital after suffering a serious head injury during an alleged assault at the hotel in Southern Way on December 12.

Bradley Casey, 20, from Cheshunt has been charged with manslaughter and will appear at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on February 24.

Carriageway repairs

HARLOW: A programme of improvement works along the stretch of M11 near Harlow starts on Monday.

Resurfacing of the southbound carriageway of the motorway at junction 8 (Bishop's Stortford) will be carried out from 10pm until 6am and is expected to last two weeks.

Embankment and drainage work will also take place at the same junction from February 26.

At the end of the month resurfacing work will begin at junction 7 (Harlow) along with road marking, barrier renewal and carriageway repairs on the A120.

Highways explained

ESSEX: An animated film has been produced by the county council to shed light on how it manages highways and transportation.

The aim is to explain how the authority – which is responsible for 5,000 miles of roads, cycleways, non-commercial bus services and 127,000 streetlights – makes decisions on new road schemes, highways maintenance and supporting public transport.

Harlow county councillor Eddie Johnson, who is cabinet member for highways delivery, said: "Highways affect everyone every day so it is not surprising that residents tell us they are such a high priority. I hope people will have a better understanding of how we are managing highways and transportation in Essex after watching this film."

Talks over Square are set to continue

Councillors to discuss possibility of financial support

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

COUNCILLORS will debate whether there is money available to help The Square open new premises in Harlow.

The move follows a petition organised by supporter Emma Bartrick calling for the iconic music venue to have a future in the town.

"We petition the council to ensure that provision is made to supply sufficient funding to the new community body that arises from SquareOne Entertainment which will ensure the survival of a key cultural resource," read the petition, which was signed by more than 750 people.

It continues: "The Square has been part of Harlow's community for over 35 years.

"It's a place where big names will play, mix records or tell jokes one night, and local schools and college groups will get on the stage the next night.

Creative

"Even for those that aren't performing it's somewhere to come together and be creative; be part of a culture; socialise with like-minded people, and create friendships that will last a lifetime.

"If you go in the ladies' toilets right now the walls are filled with writing about what The Square has meant. Same goes for the Facebook page. A safe place that has let people be themselves is the main theme."

The Fourth Avenue venue closed last month after landowners Circle Housing submitted plans to redevelop the site into housing.

The proposals were rejected by Harlow Council and management company SquareOne Entertainment has identified a potential alternative site.

This site, according to the council, has significant costs associated with it to make it suitable and the local authority will need more information before providing funding.

Community

SquareOne intend to the run the new venue as a social enterprise, making it available to community and art groups.

A report to councillors ahead of tonight's meeting said: "There is still much information yet to be provided if a financial justification for council support is to be achieved and it is not yet clear where and how any balancing finance could be achieved both to set up the enterprise and to keep it financially available."

Councillors will make a decision over the proposals this evening (Thursday).

■ THE Square is appealing for the return of signs that were stolen from its car park over the weekend.

Adam Smith, of SquareOne Entertainment, said: "We're still based in the building and we still need the signs.

"We're not looking to get anyone in trouble, we just want them back."

Anyone with information about the theft should email admin@thesquareharlow.com.

UNCERTAIN FUTURE: A planning application to redevelop the Fourth Avenue site was rejected by Harlow Council last month

Anger after residents are barred from M11 meeting

AN assurance that consultations over proposals to build a new motorway junction in Harlow will resume in June has been given by Essex County Council this week after more than 50 people were turned away from a meeting in Old Harlow.

They had turned up at St John's Arts and Recreation Centre believing the meeting was open to the public but were refused entry because it was an invitation-only event.

District and county councillor Mike Danvers accused County Hall of "messing up" on the consultation.

"So many frustrated people have been unable to express their point of view," he said. "I could not believe so many of us were standing outside while Essex Highways officers barred our way into the meeting. We just wanted to be informed and give our point of view."

However, a County Hall spokesman said: "We are currently in the process of running a handful of meetings targeted at addressing localised issues with residents who will be directly impacted."

"We hope the public understand these meetings are invite only to allow discussion of localised land and access issues."

The proposal to build a new junction 7a is designed to ease congestion around junction 7 at Hastingwood and to improve access into and out of the town during peak times.

Sign up for collectors fair

VOLUNTEERS at St John's Arts and Recreation Centre in Old Harlow are calling on anyone with collectables to book a stall at a record and collectors fair taking place next month.

The team have been working hard on their fundraising efforts and have already held a successful table top sale this month, with many other events planned throughout the year.

Tables for the fair, which takes place from 11am-4pm on Sunday, February 21, are priced at £25 and can be booked by calling the ARC on (01279) 442447 or by emailing info@stjohnsarc.org.uk. Entry is £1.

St John's Arts and Recreation Centre is a registered charity and receives no public funding towards the running and maintenance of the building.

Knitters kept busy by mini hats fundraiser

ESSEX: Keen knitters across the county put their skills to good use by making 11,000 mini woolly hats for a charity campaign.

Members of library-based Knit & Natter groups, including Great Parndon at Staple Tye, were asked to make and donate the hats for the Big Knit in aid of Age UK Essex.

The hats will soon appear on bottles of Innocent smoothies on sale at various outlets including retailers including Sainsbury's, Boots, Tesco and WHSmith, with 25p from each sale being donated to the charity.

Essex County Council leader David Finch said: "Knitting is an enjoyable hobby for many and the Big Knit gave people who enjoy knitting the chance to do so while also contributing to a meaningful cause."

Tesco to cut back store opening times

HARLOW: Tesco is calling time on 24-hour shopping at its Church Langley supermarket.

The store in Church Langley Way is one of 76 where opening hours will be cut back in a move which the company says will "improve the shopping experience for customers".

From Monday, March 14 the store will close from midnight to 6am to give staff more time to stock shelves, improving the availability of products and the appearance of the stores.

Volunteers sought for book challenge

ESSEX: Volunteers aged 14 and above are being sought to help support this year's Roald Dahl-themed summer reading challenge taking place in three county's libraries.

Last year more than 42,000 children took part in the challenge by reading books to gain rewards including stickers, certificates and medals.

Volunteers, who must be able to commit to a minimum of 21 hours, will help library staff sign up children and encourage youngsters to complete the challenge which runs from July 16 to September 3.

Application forms are available from libraries or from the Essex Libraries website.

FRONT PAGE STORY: Brother of woman who died 13 years ago speaks out as detectives launch a new appeal to catch her killers

'I want to see justice for the whole family'

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

COLD case detectives investigating the brutal murder of a mother-of-three in Harlow 13 years ago have launched a fresh appeal for information to bring her killers to justice.

Beverley Brinkley was found with serious head injuries in the third floor lobby area of the flats where she lived in The Stow, on Sunday, February 2, 2003.

She had been assaulted by two men at around 7.45pm in what police described at the time as a "vicious attack".

The 35-year-old mother-of-three died at Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge, four days later.

Despite repeated high-profile appeals to bring her killer to justice, no one has ever been brought to trial for her murder.

Answers

Now, 13 years after her death, detectives have launched a fresh bid for answers believing they could come from the local community.

Beverley's older brother Freddie Brinkley, from Harlow, said he hoped that after 13 years someone will feel able to pass on information to police.

"I miss her more as the years go on thinking about all the things we would have shared," the 51-year-old said.

"I want to see justice for the whole family and see the men who killed my sister behind bars.

"Mum died a few years after Beverley was killed so sadly she will never see that day but I really hope my 80-year-old father will be able to see justice done while he is still around."

Mr Brinkley added: "Beverley never got to see her daughters grow in to women and have children of their own.

She would have loved being a grandmother and would have adored them.

"Beverley was a great sister; always laughing. She had a really loud laugh, the sort you would hear in a crowded room above everything else. I'll always remember her laugh.

"I'm hoping that now 13 years have passed since she was killed someone will now feel able to pass on information to the police that they may have been too scared to say back then. Please help our family see justice done."

Two anonymous letters were received by the investigation team following media coverage marking the first anniversary of Ms Brinkley's attack but the authors were never identified. Police also released descriptions of the two suspects.

The first was described as white, fairly short, of stocky build, aged in his late 30s to early 40s, with dark wavy hair on top with a cropped style cut in to the back of the neck. He had dark piercing eyes and dark stubble.

The second was also white, younger than the first and with blond shaven hair. He was of stocky build with long legs.

Dreadful

Kevin Macey, head of Serious Crime Review for Essex Police, said: "Now 13 years since the murder, the case sits with the cold case team at Essex Police headquarters. Detectives are keen to hear from anyone with information about this dreadful murder.

"The passage of time can be a disadvantage but sometimes can assist where loyalties have changed and there has always been a belief that the answer would come from local people.

"This is one of relatively few unresolved homicides in Essex and one we would dearly love to close with answers."

■ Anyone with information about the case should contact Essex Police on the non-emergency 101 or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

I'm hoping that now 13 years have passed since she was killed someone will feel able to pass on information to the police that they may have been too scared to say back then

Can you offer a home to an older cat or dog in our care?

EVERY year our branch rehomes more than 150 animals. Usually they are only under our care for a few weeks but there are always exceptions to the rule and we find our longer-stay cats and dogs tend to be older.

We find a lot more older cats coming into our care at this time of year. Usually they have been looked after wonderfully all their lives but find themselves with us when their owners pass away.

We have two older cats with us at the moment – Jess and Whiskey (pictured below) who are both about 10 years old.

Jess is extremely friendly and loves the attention of people. She can be very vocal and makes her presence felt, following you from room to room until you give her a stroke. She loves nothing more than a good chin rub.

Whiskey has taken more time and is still very much missing her past life. She needs extra TLC and would love a warm lap to cuddle up on.

Both cats have a clean bill of health and are looking forward to settling into a new home. Could this be yours?

Most cats can happily live well into their late teens so adopting an older cat is more like adopting a middle aged cat.

■ DID you know we offer a home-for-life service in which we will take care of your animals should you pass away?

If you want any more information on this, please contact our clinic.

■ YOUR donations are the lifeblood of our service. We are always in need of stock to sell in our shop and towels, which can be left at our shop or put in any of our donation bins.

We would like to thank all those Star readers who volunteered their service in our advice centre. We are now well on the way to offering a full five-day-a-week service.

Dad-of-two is chosen as lodge's Worshipful Master

William Mata

A 26-YEAR-OLD has become the youngest ever member of Essex Freemasons to reach the rank of Worshipful Master.

Chris Rayner said he was "honoured" to take over as the ceremonial leader of Ilford Castle Masonic Lodge, which meets at the Harlow Masonic Hall, in Church Street.

"I'm really enjoying it and it's great to get so far at such a young age," said the father-of-two.

"I have always wanted to follow my father and grandfather's footsteps into Freemasons and I had always been involved from a young age, but I officially joined when I was 18.

"It is an honour to be named Worshipful Master."

Freemasons are a private members' club with a collective focus on raising money for charity.

Cadets on parade during MP's visit

HARLOW'S detachment of Army Cadets turned out in force for an inspection by the town's MP.

Robert Halfon was invited by leader Sergeant Daniel Bees to visit the unit during one of its weekly parade nights at the Old Territorial Army Centre in Old Road.

"Mr Halfon had a chat with them and had a guided tour of the facilities and evening activities," said Sgt Bees. "The cadets enjoyed meeting him and were proud to show him their skills."

Sgt Bees said he had invited Mr Halfon along after he had expressed an interest in the activities of youth organisations in the town.

The Army Cadet Force is open to youngsters aged 12-18. The Harlow detachment meets on Thursday evenings from 7.30-9.30pm and is currently looking to recruit new members as well as adult volunteers.

PC swaps crime for school run

Officer steps in to help stranded family

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A POLICE officer from Harlow found himself taking part in the school run after stopping to help a driver whose car had broken down.

PC Josh Haase was on his way back from helping officers from the Metropolitan force with an enquiry last Tuesday morning when he spotted the stationary car on Southern Way.

The vehicle was parked halfway on the pavement and displaying its hazard warning lights.

PC Haase pulled up behind the car and after getting out of his vehicle he saw that the front nearside wheel had completely buckled.

The woman driver told him it happened as the driver was negotiating a roundabout on her way to taking her two sons to school.

She was happy to wait for her car to be recovered but worried about how to get her two sons to school on time.

PC Haase stepped in and offered

GOOD SAMARITAN: PC Josh Haase

stopped to help a family after their car had broken down on Southern Way, Harlow last Tuesday to take the teenagers to school while the woman waited for a recovery vehicle to arrive. She gratefully accepted his offer and the boys were more than happy to be taxied to school in a police car.

Her 16-year-old son was due to catch a train at 8.05am to Bishop's Stortford where he goes to school while her 15-year-old son is a pupil to a school near Harlow Town station.

PC Haase had just 20 minutes to battle through the rush hour traffic to make it to the station in time.

He dropped the younger boy off outside his school gates then battled through the traffic just in time for the older boy to make his train.

He said: "I stopped to ensure the safety of the driver and passengers and helped as much as I could."

"She was shocked at first at my offer to take the boys to school, but she really appreciated the offer."

On Facebook, Pauline Robinson said: "You were our knight in shining armour. Hopefully this will be the only time they get to ride in a police car."

10p a week hike will pay for 30 extra PCSOs

COUNCIL taxpayers will be paying an extra 10p a week to Essex Police to keep 90 PCSOs on the streets of the county.

The increase of just under £5 per household per year on the police precept was approved at a meeting of the Police and Crime Panel on Friday.

It will raise an additional £3m a year and enable the county force to retain 90 full-time Police Community Support Officers - 50 per cent more than the 60 that had been proposed just months ago.

Police and Crime Commissioner Nick Alston said: "Whilst I am conscious that even small increases in tax can cause hardship, Essex Police remains significantly under-funded compared with other police forces whilst being judged efficient and providing value for money by Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary."

The decision to raise the council tax precept comes after the police grant settlement was announced by Chancellor George Osborne in December, stabilising funding for the county.

Mr Alston said all the responses he received from the community in recent months indicated the public would be prepared to pay extra for a more noticeable front-line police presence.

"It is quite clear that people are willing to pay for more policing," he said. "People are anxious about a visible police presence and they are prepared to pay more for it. This is the message I have heard consistently from communities right across the county week by week."

However, he added: "It is with great regret that, even with this increase, 160 PCSOs and 62 customer contact administrators will be leaving Essex Police in the coming weeks and months. I thank each and every one of their professionalism and dignity."

The force needs to save £63m by 2019/20.

Chief Constable Stephen Kavanagh said: "The historic underfunding of Essex Police continues to undermine my ability to deliver the policing I and local people expect."

"An increase of around 10p per week will keep more PCSOs within the force, tackle changing crime in the county and is the best way of protecting and serving the people of Essex."

RANGERS CLUB

What a happy little hog

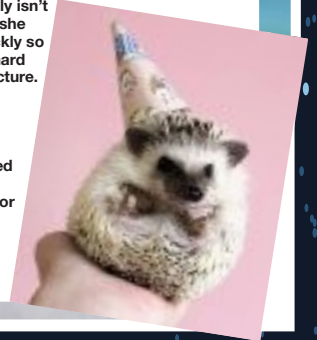

HOW cute is she? An African pigmy hedgehog called Calico has become an internet star after being taken by her owner on a trip across America.

Photographs of the tiny spiny creature, who is two years old and so small she can fit inside a cup, have been posted online as she visits some of the country's most famous landmarks.

More than 80,000 people are now following her adventures on social media.

Her owner, who didn't want to be named, said: "I've had Calico for a little over two years now. She certainly isn't camera shy but she moves very quickly so it's sometimes hard to get a good picture."

"We bring her cage with us to make her as comfortable as possible. I started posting the pictures online for fun but never imagined that it would grow this much."

Family Funeral Directors Monumental Masons

Inevitable and indiscriminating though it is, bereavement is probably life's greatest trauma which even today, knows no immediate relief. Whether the death of a close relative or friend is to some extent expected, the shock and grief is nonetheless overwhelming.

One of the most immediate concerns will be to arrange a funeral. The first person to contact is the funeral director, who is able to take on the whole responsibility of ensuring the arrangements are made according to the wishes of the family and that these are carried out in a professional manner. A funeral director acts as an agent for the family, organising all the various requirements. Full information can be found on our comprehensive website and we also provide helpful booklets, which set out simply and clearly the procedures and formalities which occur at the time of bereavement.

Our Staff Our Harlow funeral home is led by Managers Derek Oakley and Craig Knott, who have over 20 years' experience between them. They are assisted by a highly professional team, we are proud that we are able to offer families the choice of male or female funeral directors and conductors, so that they feel totally comfortable with all of the services that we are able to offer.

Our Funeral Homes Our purpose designed funeral home in Wych Elm, Harlow, is close to the town centre. Our offices are tastefully furnished with fine reproduction furniture. All of our facilities are on-site, including our Chapel of Rest, so that when visiting to make arrangements or when coming to the Chapel they can take all the time they need. We also have funeral homes locally in Sawbridgeworth, Epping and Bishop's Stortford.

Vehicles We have a modern, yet traditional design, funeral fleet. These chauffeur driven vehicles have leather interiors and are air conditioned, with limousine seating for up to seven people. Our aim is to ensure the comfort of families and transport them to and from the funeral without the stress of negotiating the local traffic.

Memorials We work with the leading local Master Masons and importers of fine stone, which enables us to provide our clients with high quality memorials at the most competitive prices. We provide a computer generated proof for families to approve before work commences, to ensure that our clients are completely happy with the look and layout of the memorial before going ahead. Please feel free to visit our memorial showroom.

Pre-Paid Funeral Plans The reason many people take out a plan is for peace of mind for themselves and their families, by relieving them of the worry of funeral expenses and arrangements. We work with Golden Charter, the UK's largest provider of pre-paid funeral plans to provide our clients with a caring and responsible way of making arrangements, paying today's prices for the funeral of the future. To find out more, with no obligation, please feel free to give us a call.

CCTV plea over assault in street

Police release image of man they want to question

POLICE investigating an assault in which a woman had a tooth knocked out have released this CCTV image of a man they want to interview.

The incident took place outside the Goose Fat and Garlic restaurant in Bell Street at about 1.30am on Sunday, January 24 when two men were involved in an altercation.

The victim, a 20-year-old woman, intervened and was assaulted, sustaining injuries to her face which resulted in the loss of one tooth and another being broken.

Police believe the man in the CCTV images may be able to assist them with their investigation.

Anyone who recognises him or who witnessed the incident is asked to contact PC Phil Rosier on Hertfordshire Constabulary's non-emergency number 101, quoting crime reference A4/16/48. Alternatively, you can contact Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

Patients moved after fire breaks out at neuro centre

PATIENTS had to be moved when fire broke out in a staff area at the Jacobs Neuro Centre in the grounds of Rivers Hospital in Sawbridgeworth.

The blaze, which happened last Thursday is believed to have started in a member of staff's bag. No-one was hurt.

The fire service was alerted to the incident at the 60-bed clinic in High Wych Road at 10.53am and crews from Sawbridgeworth and Bishop's Stortford were sent to the scene.

Patients in two wings were moved to other parts of the centre while the fire was dealt with. There was minimal damage and normal activity resumed the following day.

A statement from Ramsay Health Care UK, which runs the facility, said fire investigators and police believed it was most likely caused by the malfunction of a personal electrical item in a staff member's bag.

"The fire brigade and police extended their praise to all the staff at the unit for their response and for the fire safety systems that ensured everyone was safe and the fire and smoke was contained in one area," the statement added.

The centre is on the same site as the 52-bed Gardens Neuro Centre. Both deliver nursing and therapy services for people with complex neurological conditions and brain or spinal injuries.

Hayden, 6, will star in Madam Butterfly

YOUTH is no barrier for six-year-old Hayden Lawless, who makes his operatic debut in Madam Butterfly at Harlow Playhouse.

While his peers have toys and afternoon television to look forward to after school, the youngster from Summers in Harlow will have 411 opera lovers for company in theatre's main auditorium.

"It has been phenomenal for us, and we are immensely proud," said Hayden's father Ade Lawless, 40.

"We found out one month ago he would get the part and we are overjoyed at the opportunity."

Madam Butterfly is the latest epic production from the Russian State Ballet and Opera House and will take in Harlow Playhouse for one night only tonight (February 4).

Performed to Puccini's most famous score, the plot follows the tragic love affair between an American naval officer and his young Japanese bride Cio Cio San.

Hayden will play Dolore, the son of Cio Cio San.

"He has been rehearsing from a DVD as it's a travelling company and Hayden's character is played by a different actor at every location," said Ade.

"He will only get a limited time to rehearse with the cast, as they are only performing in Harlow for one night."

"It's quite a sad story and Hayden is learning to look sad. He knows what he needs to do and he will be absolutely fine."

Hayden's mother Claire and his sister Sophia have also been helping him learn lines, while Ade added that his son has paid particular attention to perfecting his bowing technique - essential for any Japanese character.

While Hayden's role doesn't involve singing, it is a major part in a very large scale production, which will put his acting skills and nerves to the test.

A major draw of the opera will be a live 30-piece orchestra performing Puccini's score, while the bright lights, thundering bass and glass-shattering soprano can make for quite an intimidating experience.

But Ade has every confidence that Hayden will be able to handle the pressure.

"Both Hayden and his sister have both been going to Stagecoach Theatre Arts in Harlow for more than a year and he was found to be perfect for the role."

"He is very excited, but as he is only six, he may not understand the scale of what he is doing until afterwards. But he is very confident and has been chosen for roles in school plays before while he will be appearing in the Stagecoach production of Eddie the Penguin."

"The role (of Dolore) is similar to some I've done myself," added Ade, whose performance skills have taken him to many stages, including the opening ceremony of the London 2012 Olympic Games.

"Acting runs in our family, but we would never push our kids into anything. But I am really proud they have chosen acting as it is an important life skill."

"He is wonderful and outgoing," said Hayden's newest fan and show producer Alexej Ignatow.

"He loves music, singing, dancing and any kind of drama or performance activity, as well as swimming. He is thrilled to be a part of the opera and it is an experience he will remember for a long time."

"His role involves coming onto stage pretending to play and sleep next to Cio Cio San while she sings. He will come onto the stage a few times during the performance."

Russian State Ballet and Opera House are always a top drawer for Playhouse audiences and recently sold out their festive performance of The Nutcracker.

While the singing will be in Italian, high-tech surtitles will be projected above the stage to give an audience a blow-by-blow translation as the opera progresses.

"No experience is needed to enjoy these classics," said Alexej.

"Our sets and costume designs, as well as the informative programmes make the productions very accessible and most of all, enjoyable."

■ Russian State Ballet and Opera House will perform Madam Butterfly at Harlow Playhouse tonight (February 4). Tickets cost £32.50 and can be bought from www.playhouseharlow.com.

CHILDREN are coming out of their shells to experience ballet for the first time with Tortoise and the Hare.

The 40-minute re-imagining of Aesop's fable is performed by the Northern Ballet as part of the company's Short Ballets for Small People series.

"This ballet is a classic tale beautifully retold through dance," said artistic director Daniel de Andrade, ahead of the performance at Harlow Playhouse on February 13.

"It provides a wonderful opportunity for children and their families to enjoy live performances designed especially for them and will hopefully inspire a new-found love for dance, music and theatre."

The plot remains simple. The down-on-his-luck hero Tortoise who, tired of being teased for his slowness, challenges the speedy Hare to a race.

But with highly-choreographed group dance routines and impressive individual performances, the old tale is given a fresh lease of life to a new audience.

"Ballet and theatre is a magical world," said Gavin McCaig, who plays the protagonist Tortoise.

"I would encourage parents to introduce their kids to the arts for so many reasons, the main one being I can say it is such a fulfilling pastime. To expose children to the arts captivates their imagination and encourages engagement on so many levels.

"It's also a great family day out, and the kids are sure to love what they are seeing on stage."

The outcome of the mismatched race may seem inevitable but life is full of surprises and anything is possible on stage, as young audiences are learning for the first time.

After kicking off in Middlesbrough on Tuesday, the cast face a tough task of giving three, almost daily, performances in venues around the country before finishing in Leicester on June 18.

One of the challenges of the production is how to make the plodding protagonist interesting to an audience.

"The character of the Tortoise is an interesting one," said Gavin on playing the role.

"He has this all-knowing aura about him, yet is humble, kind, wise and reliable. I like to think he is everything you'd want to find in a tortoise if he could meet you for a coffee and have a catch-up!

"It is quite a challenge to move so slowly and with such stiffness throughout the show when I have trained all my life not to be," he added.

"Truth be told, I try and feel really sleepy and I usually lie down on my shell backstage for a while.

"In my first scene I have just woken up after a long sleep, so it helps to have been rested."

While his energetic nemesis Hare is leaping over the stage and his co-stars are joining en masse dance routines, Gavin has to bring Tortoise to life in more subtle ways.

"This role doesn't require much actual dancing so the character really is the role," he laughed.

"Everything I do from the way I tilt my head to the facial expressions I make is supposed to encompass this lovable and comic character.

"It changes from show to show too, depending on how the audience reacts. You learn how much you can push or hold back on the comedy or facial expressions in order to get the best reaction.

"After the first technical rehearsal was out of the way I tried to perform each show more and more to what I believed the Tortoise would be like."

After appearing in Northern Ballet's Elves and the Shoemaker and Clog Man on CBeebies, Gavin is becoming a master of children's theatre.

"I love hearing the audience laugh," he added.

"It's so fulfilling to know the kids and the rest of the audience are enjoying the show.

"I feel very proud to dance in the ballet, and I try my utmost to bring the character to life."

Northern Ballet will perform Tortoise and the Hare on Saturday, February 13 at Harlow Playhouse. There will be performances at 2pm, 4pm and 6pm. Tickets cost £5 from www.playhouseharlow.com.

Bluesdragons aim to get you dancing!

JIMMY C and the Bluesdragons are not afraid to break blues conventions if they can get everyone dancing.

Back at Marigolds club by popular demand, the Bluesdragons are led by the charismatic Canadian Jimmy C who now lives in London, via San Francisco and Japan.

Playing a repertoire that includes BB King, Robert Johnson and T-Bone Walker the band have forged a reputation of being some of the hardest workers on the circuit.

However, the Bluesdragons stand out by playing the songs of later bands and artists including The Rolling Stones, Cream, Jimi Hendrix and The Doors.

They freely admit they are not blues purists, but they make up for a lack of authenticity with their energy and sheer enjoyment.

Combining sharp and snappy blues with a clear love for performing their music, Jimmy C and co aim to entertain and get you dancing, just like their heroes Muddy Waters and Rufus Thomas.

■ Jimmy C and the Bluesdragons will perform at Marigolds, Chippingfield, Old Harlow on Friday, February 12. Tickets cost £7 on the door.

Rock 'n' roll back to the schoolyard

HEAD back to high school this weekend as Bishop's Stortford Music Festival organisers put on a nostalgic 1950s prom.

The American style event, complete with hot dogs, alcoholic milkshakes and a live rock 'n' roll band, will take over the United Reformed Church Hall in Water Lane on Saturday.

Nostalgic dressing in the decade's style is strongly encouraged by organisers. For inspiration, attendees are advised to look back at John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John in the classic musical film Grease and the iconic school dance scene of Back to the Future.

Live music will come from The Rocker Covers. The band play contemporary songs in a rock 'n' roll style and will break out into some 1950s classics too. There will also be a DJ.

A prom king and queen will be crowned on the night. Harlow Theatre Company will attend in costume ahead of upcoming production of MOJO, a show set in the back streets of 1950s Soho.

Tickets for the prom, which starts at 8pm, cost £14 and include a hot dog from the diner. The first 20 people to arrive will receive a complimentary alcoholic milkshake. Book at www.kabodler.com/details/981 or at the Tourist Information Centre.

"There will be some fantastic costumes, hero entertainment and princess themed fun."

Throughout the five days of events youngsters can expect a wide range of activity and fun-filled afternoons.

Dad's Army: 10 things you need to know

As Dad's Army marches onto the big screen this week, Susan Griffin rallies the troops to sniff out some behind-the-scenes gossip from the cast FORWARD! Toby Jones as Captain Mainwaring, front left and below, and Bill Nighy as Sergeant Wilson lead the Home Guard.

1) We have The X Factor to thank for inspiring the idea of making a movie.

Producer Damian Jones, 51, was flicking through the channels one night, in a bid to find something aside from the TV singing show to watch, when he came across a rerun of Dad's Army.

Curious, he tracked down the viewing figures and discovered that almost three million Brits were still tuning in every week to watch the nostalgic comedy series about a Home Guard platoon, which first aired in 1968.

Inspired, he then approached the Dad's Army estate with the idea of making a movie.

2) Screenwriter Hamish McColl was understandably nervous about embarking on the script.

"Of course, this was the holy grail of British comedy in many ways and there are a lot of arguments to leave it alone," says the 54-year-old, whose other credits include Mr. Bean's Holiday.

"But there is such richness and depth in that wonderful idea that [original writers] Jimmy Perry and David Croft had, and such wonderful characters, that there really was mileage in it."

3) A key decision was to move the action to a later date in the Second World War.

For McColl, the real-life subterfuge campaign that had been thought up, to throw the Germans off the scent of their real Day-D targets, offered the perfect comic potential.

"I saw photos of members of the Home Guard holding up inflatable tanks and balsa wood planes, and I thought, 'This is Dad's Army!'" he says. "It's got all the aspirations of war, and all the comedy of inflatable tanks."

4) Director Oliver Parker, along with Jones, was looking for actors who could make the iconic characters their own.

"We were very clear that we were casting Captain Mainwaring, not someone doing Arthur Lowe doing Captain Mainwaring," notes the producer.

Toby Jones, 49, was top of the list from the outset. "The fact I've cast a smaller guy is not to do with Lowe, but because this idea of Mainwaring as a little Napoleon leading the platoon seemed intrinsic to me," Parker comments.

5) Once Jones hopped on board, the film-makers found a certain momentum picked up. "It became, hopefully, something we could all do together, and all sink together if it failed. There's something very Dad's Army about that," says Parker, laughing.

Danny Mays signed on as spiv Private Walker, Blake Harrison as the dreamer Private Pike, Bill Nighy as the smooth Sergeant Wilson, Sir Tom Courtenay as the bumbling Lance-Corporal Jones, and Bill Paterson as the doom-laden Private Frazer.

6) Unlike the TV series, women have prominent roles in the film, with actresses including Sarah Lancashire, Felicity Montagu and Annette Crosbie all taking part.

"The cherry on the cake," as McColl puts it, "was Catherine Zeta-Jones joining us to offer that wonderful lustre of glamour." Parker adds: "It was one of those things, where she has fond memories of Darling Buds Of May and this country and this was a great opportunity for her to reconnect. She really connected with the script and when this calibre of cast was joining up, she didn't seem to hesitate."

7) Zeta-Jones now lives in Manhattan with husband Michael Douglas and their two children.

"My husband, being an actor, wanted to work with all these guys," she reveals. "He was like [does an impression], 'Oh right, who else is it in then?', and I'd go, 'Well there's...', and the list went on, and he went, 'Boy whatever you're doing, the list sounds good, you better get on a plane and do that.'"

8) The Welsh actress plays the mysterious femme fatale, Rose. "The men are competing for her attention, which is always fun," says the 46-year-old.

"She's flirtatious and plays around with these guys, which happened off set as well."

She freely admits there are times when she's used a little flirtation to get what she needs.

"Some women would go, 'Ugh no', and boo-hoo that, but I have been a bit flirtatious to gain in my past," she confesses with a laugh.

"I have. I'm very happy to be open and honest and share that with the world."

9) On-set flirtation is news to Harrison. "I think it was the older boys," says the 30-year-old actor, grinning.

"I wouldn't have the confidence. I reckon it's Tom. Tom's a ladies' man, a charmer."

Best known for playing the gormless Neil in The Inbetweeners, Harrison admits he had initial reservations about the role.

"Ultimately, as soon as I'd read the script and chatted to Oly [Parker] and he started mentioning the cast, you're just like, 'Yeah, I'd probably be a bit silly not to get involved with this.'"

10) For Parker, one of his favourite moments was Jones trying to submerge himself in water off the East Yorkshire coast, where the film was shot, while wearing a fat suit. "But he couldn't, he was too buoyant," he recalls, laughing.

here was also the moment when, as Jones puts it, "I was upstaged by a seal." "I couldn't work out what I was doing. I thought, 'God, I'm a comic genius! Look at that - I just need to come out of the water and I get this big laugh.'"

With Chinese New Year falling on February 8, you've got a great reason to try out some delicious Far Eastern dishes with these great recipes

THE start of the Chinese New Year is just a few days away and you can join in the celebrations by cooking up a tasty oriental feast.

Teriyaki beef, Mango and Shallot Stir Fry

This delicious stir fry is quicker to make than waiting for a takeaway and fresh and zingy on the taste buds.

SERVES 4

Preparation time: 10 minutes

Cooking time: 10 minutes

Ingredients

8 shallots, peeled and quartered
1 tsp vegetable oil
400g sirloin or rump steak, cut into thin slices
4 tbsp Teriyaki sauce
1 mango, peeled and cut into slices handful of fresh coriander, chopped
100g medium egg noodles, cooked according to pack directions

Method

Heat a large wok or heavy based frying pan with a little vegetable oil, add the shallots and stir fry for a couple of minutes, add the beef and continue cooking for a further couple of minutes. Add the teriyaki sauce and stir until the beef and shallots are coated in the sauce. Add the mango and fresh coriander, toss everything into the cooked noodles and serve sprinkled with a little more coriander.

Cook's Tip: Place the beef in the freezer for approximately 20 minutes to firm so you can cut thin strips.

Add a handful of long stem broccoli or sugar snap peas and sprinkle with chopped spring onions and fresh chopped chilli for an extra flavour bomb.

Oriental Lamb, Shallot and Citrus Kebabs with Soy and Honey Dipping Sauce

You will need eight large wooden kebab sticks soaked in hot water to prevent them from burning in the cooking process

SERVES 4

Preparation Time; 2 ½ hours

Cooking Time; 16 minutes

Ingredients

Lamb kebabs:

450g leg of lamb cut into 3cm dice
24 medium shallots peeled
8 bayleaves

2 tbsp vegetable oil for cooking

For the marinade:

2 large oranges, rind grated and then juiced
1 lime, rind grated and then juiced
2tbsp sweet chilli sauce
2tbsp dark soy sauce
3tbsp hoisin sauce
1tbsp vegetable oil

1tbsp tomato ketchup

8 whole star anise

2 garlic cloves peeled and crushed into a paste

Freshly ground black pepper

Dipping sauce to serve:

1 red chilli diced finely without the seeds

A handful of coriander finely chopped

1tbsp of runny honey

1tbsp of dark soy sauce

1tbsp of light soy sauce

A dash of sesame seed oil

The juice of two limes

Method

Mix together all the ingredients for the marinade, stirring well.

Thread a bay leaf onto the first skewer and then alternate the shallots and the lamb onto the wooden skewer and repeat with all skewers. Lay the kebabs in a shallow dish and then pour over the marinade and leave to marinate for at least 2 hours, if possible overnight, in a fridge.

Heat a heavy based grill pan or a frying pan, drizzle with the oil, heat well then place the kebabs in the pan and fry on medium heat for 3-4 minutes on each side brushing the kebabs with remaining marinade throughout the cooking process.

Take care not to have the heat too high or you will burn the marinade.

Meanwhile for the dipping sauce mix all the ingredients together.

Serve with a green salad, basmati rice and little pots of the dipping sauce.

AGENCY FOCUS > Reyland Johnson, Acorn Mews, Harlow

Experienced staff bring a fresh, modern approach

PARTNERS: Reyland Johnson co-directors Ben Johnson and James Reyland

REYLAND Johnson may be Harlow's newest estate agency but with more than 40 years of combined experience within the industry, you can rest assured that you will receive the highest level of professionalism and quality service from this young team.

Between them the staff members have worked across the local area, selling and letting property in and around Harlow, Church Langley, Old Harlow and Newhall.

Reyland Johnson aims to offer clients a traditional service with a fresh, modern approach.

Since opening, the business has gone from strength to strength and has quickly expanded with more staff and a larger, modern office, with a reputation for drive and determination coupled with a first class service.

The company says it aims to provide the highest level of customer care and to exceed clients' expectations. The team works hard to deliver an individual service to each client to ensure they get the attention they deserve and aren't simply 'just another number on the corporate pile'.

During their time in the industry, the property market has gone through many different conditions and the Reyland Johnson team feels that their experiences during those times will help in their quest for success, however the market may be performing.

Reyland Johnson is also keen to be part of the local community and works with many of the local schools, sports teams, hospices and others through donations, sponsorships and by getting involved in fundraising and charity events.

"Harlow residents have been a fantastic support to us over the years and it is always a pleasure to be able to give back to this amazing town," says co-director Ben Johnson.

"In our first year of opening, we were saying yes to everyone who came in and asked for support! We provided football kits for several schools, donated sponsorship to various local causes including Princess Alexandra Hospital, Victoria Hall in Old Harlow, the Williams Day Unit and held a Macmillan Coffee Morning to name just a few.

"We also arranged a fun day for St Clare Hospice, which raised £5,600 for them last year."

If you are thinking of moving in 2016, why not try this agency? Reyland Johnson would be delighted to take your call or why not pop to the office for a chat and a coffee?

Johnson sets up chic new office

HERE TO HELP: Senior negotiator Sonny Montalto, trainee negotiator Francesca Fincham, property manager Harriett Jackson, director Ben Johnson, director James Reyland and property manager Karen Ball.

LESS than two years ago, Reyland Johnson Estate Agents was a fledgling business, the brainchild of two local young men who were operating out of a small shed.

Next month, as it celebrates its second anniversary, this dynamic, thriving company is making a name for itself as one of the best in the business for sales and lettings in the Harlow area.

It has stylish new offices, laid out over three floors in Acorn Mews in Bush Fair, and already boasts a team of six people.

Co-directors James Reyland and Ben Johnson were both born and brought up in Harlow, so know the area well. They first met when they started out in the property industry and worked together for other local estate agents.

"We worked together for four years and that's where I first met James before I moved agencies" explains Ben. "James joined me there a few years later, but we always had a desire to open up our own agency."

Over the past few months, the pair have brought new team members on board, including senior negotiator, Sonny Montalto, property managers Karen Ball and Harriett Jackson and trainee negotiator, Francesca Fincham.

In a short space of time, the agency has built up a loyal clientele, with much of their business coming from personal recommendation. They have already sold more than 300 homes.

The team pride themselves on attention to detail and first class customer service, which is evident from many customer reviews (take a look at www.rjestateagents.co.uk)

It's hard to believe the stylish new office at Acorn Mews was a sandwich shop just over a year ago! The refurbishment has been radical, but now looks every inch a chic, contemporary agency.

Every floor has been replaced, walls have been created, walls have been knocked down, a new kitchen and bathroom have been installed and there has been new heating and insulation throughout.

The team worked around the refurbishment, moving from floor to floor as the workmen finished the various levels.

Now complete, the new ground floor is home to a sales department, with five desks and a reception area. On the first floor is a meeting room and a staff area and on the top floor is the company's lettings office with space for a larger team – eventually. There is plenty of parking outside too.

"Yes it was a lot of work. It was a big project, even the front doors had to come off so we could create a shop window, but we wanted to create the look and feel of an upmarket London estate agency" explains Ben.

When you visit the agency, you'll see they have achieved just that. This stylish, modern estate agency, run by a vibrant young team who are determined to foster client relations and create a good impression can only be a force for good in the industry.

AGENCY PROFILE > Reyland Johnson, Acorn Mews, Harlow.

Meet the team at RJ . . .

■ James Reyland

James, 29 was born and brought up in Harlow and began working in the estate agency industry at just 14.

He originally thought he would like to be an airline pilot, but having been given a chance of a Saturday job at a local agent, worked his way up to branch manager in just six years and embraced a career in property instead.

"I love this industry," said James. "Every day is different and I get to meet some very interesting people. I know you might hear estate agents say they always put the client first, but we really do and as a young company we want to make sure our clients keep coming back to us."

"I want to be there for them when they move house again over the years. As an independent agency, we know clients will always be able to deal with us, unlike some of the national corporate companies where staff come and go so quickly."

■ Ben Johnson

Another Harlow boy, born and bred, Ben, 34, is involved in youth football and is well known around the town.

His knowledge of Harlow is renowned within the industry and he is thoroughly enjoying the hard work involved in building this young business. His ambitions include growing the lettings side of Reyland Johnson.

LET US HELP! Harriett Jackson and Karen Ball on the top floor

"Lettings is a hard business to grow, but I'd like to expand that as much as possible and I'd also like to see us as the number one agency in Harlow for sales and lettings."

"We've already outperformed some of the more established agencies in the short time we've been operating, but I want to build the business with clients who know they are getting a great service and value for money."

■ Sonny Montalto

Sonny, 26, joined Reyland Johnson last summer, having originally worked as an estate agent in Loughton, then had a spell in the recruitment industry before realising that estate agency was the career path he wanted to continue with. He returned to the area to work for another agency before joining Ben and James last year. "We are all young and ambitious, but we work very much as a team, to make sure our clients reap the benefits," said Sonny. "As much as we want to grow the business, equally we want to make sure that every client receives the same high levels of service so that they will recommend us to their friends and family."

■ Karen Ball

Karen, 55, worked in the banking industry for almost 25 years before deciding to change tack and work in the property business. She started work in London before moving closer to her Harlow home, working for a bank in the town centre.

"I'd been approached to work on the lettings side of things and it was the right time for me. I was ready for a change. This is very different to banking, where I was with the public 24/7. Now the job is varied - no two days are the same."

As you might expect from someone who has had a long career in banking, Karen's attention to detail is second to none and she looks after every aspect of the management service.

■ Harriett Jackson

With a wealth of experience and knowledge of the local market, Harriet, 32, is determined to offer the very best service to landlords using Reyland Johnson.

Prior to joining the team, she spent eight years with another local agent and alongside Karen ensures all aspects of property management are covered, from making sure rents are in, to property inventories, inspections and everything else in between. "There are often new rules and regulations coming into play in this industry and a landlord might not necessarily be totally up to date with the latest knowledge. We offer a fully comprehensive service to make it as simple as possible for our clients."

■ Francesca Fincham

The youngest member of the team, Francesca, 18, is also working towards her A-levels in History, English and Business at St Mark's School in Harlow, working at Reyland Johnson part-time. She's hoping for an A and two Bs in her exams, but has decided she wants to go straight into full-time work rather than university.

"I've had enough of studying and this is definitely what I want to do. I'm really enjoying it and am already learning as I go. "My Mum has been in the property industry since she was young too, so I was introduced to it from an early age."

Our job is all about listening

We have been very pleased with the purchase of our new home.

Intercounty were by far the best agents we dealt with whilst looking for a property. You listened to what we were looking for, notified us as soon as something suitable came available.

The efficiency and professionalism of all involved surpassed our expectations and really made moving house a whole lot easier and less stressful than we feared it may have been. We are very grateful and wouldn't hesitate in recommending you to others.

try to make some time for you this week. I can see from your stars that you have been burning the candle at both ends, which has made it harder for you to make the important decisions which are before you this month. The return of a face from the past in your career makes your working week more enjoyable. Ring now for details.

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

I can see that others have, and continue to, try your patience. Back away from those who have been dragging you down, this is your life to live for. The home looks set for a much more peaceful period as you and a close one are finally able to put a recent drama behind you. Ring now to hear how great your future can be.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

Close ones may begin to feel as if your heart is not really in any joint projects, but that's not the case is it? Use Friday's communicative aspects to talk to those involved. Ring now to hear why I know this is a union worth saving.

Phoenix fly off with a point

HARLOW Ladies managed to grind out a goalless draw with sixth-placed Phoenix.

It set the side up for next weekend's big six-pointer against second-from-bottom Old Loughtians.

Harlow are third from bottom, one place and four points above Old Loughtians.

Harlow's new pairing on the right, Petra Trimble and Anna Ferdinando, combined well.

Chances fell to Charlotte Byers, Trimble, Georgina Esterhuysen-Smith and Emma Tweddle but the Phoenix keeper had an exceptional game.

In the second half, the Harlow defence of Anita Shearman, Lara Horrax and Sam Care stood strong, assisted in the final minutes by Trimble.

Player of the match Horrax combined strong defence with forceful attack down the right and Harlow had further chances through Tanishka Naidoo, Byers, Rowena Ricketts and Tweddle.

But the Phoenix keeper thwarted every attempt during a fantastic performance.

■ Harlow Ladies seconds won 5-1 away to Brentwood fourths.

Goalscorers were Stephanie Hawes (2), Tracey Taylor and Sarah Donaghey (2).

Derby demolition

Rivals put Rams to the sword to stay top

A DEVASTATING derby demolition at close neighbours Epping Upper Clapton left the Rams' promotion hopes on a knife edge.

Harlow were partly architects of their own downfall with two yellow cards which meant they spent half of the second period with only 14 men.

The sin-bin for scrum-half Charlie Woodington himself on the stroke of half-time was particularly harsh and the result of an accumulation of offences by Rams, who conceded nine penalties in that half alone.

Even excusing for some strange decisions by the match official, Clapton were fantastic in the second half and fully deserved their overwhelming victory.

The win means Clapton are two points clear at the top and with two going up this season, Harlow have much to do now as they are 12 points adrift of second-placed Old Cooperians.

All the talk beforehand was the claim from Rams skipper Shaun Roberts – who missed the game because of an ankle injury – that Clapton's first team consisted of players that hadn't come through the ranks.

In fact, 11 of the starting 15 had been Colts at Uplands Road, while all the try scorers – including the Harlow sole tryscorer Ross Stalley – came through the Clapton youth ranks.

The game was on a knife edge at half-time as Harlow battled brilliantly against the powerful wind which was in Clapton's favour.

The visitors opened the scoring after just a couple of minutes when Stalley sprinted through down the right flank to score an unconverted try in the corner.

However, Kurtis Knightly

scored three penalties to give the hosts a 9-5 lead at the break.

Harlow's cause was further compounded by the yellow card for Woodington right at the death, and he missed the crucial opening ten minutes of the second period.

The breezy conditions, so powerful in the first half, suddenly dropped completely to benefit Clapton.

Pressure

Eight minutes after the restart Clapton had their first try.

Harlow couldn't deal with the home pressure as number eight Laurie Dobbin broke through and touched down under the posts.

Surprisingly the conversion was missed by Knightly.

Undeterred, the second try came on 57 minutes. More lacklustre defence from the Rams enabled Tim Matthews to slip over near the posts for a try converted by Knightly for 21-5.

The end was nigh four minutes later when dissent from Charlie

Robinson saw him sin-binned at a crucial time as the momentum firmly swung in the hosts' favour with such a healthy lead.

Harlow's most powerful weapon, their line-out, even disintegrated as Clapton started to win Rams' set-pieces.

The third and final try came on 68 minutes and was one to saviour – although it came after a Harlow mistake as Woodington dawdled and was dispossessed just inside his own half.

Quick hands saw the ball switched from wing Rupert Wood to prop Clinton Dorling, before flanker Joe Parking supplied the coup de grace.

Knightly converted again to complete a 28-5 win and secure the derby bragging rights against a Harlow side that just didn't turn up for the second half.

It meant Clapton, promoted to Division Three North East last season, sealed a double over their rivals.

Royals flush as Hawks fail in late reign

Herts County Basketball League Division One

East Herts Royals 77
Harlow Hawks 52

THE Hawks found it tough against the Stevenage-based East Herts Royals on Tuesday as they returned to Hertfordshire League action.

Starting the game slowly, Harlow struggled to find their shooting touch as only baskets from Shab Niaz and Alex Hinds could match nine points from the home team.

Another basket from Niaz, this time from behind the three-point line, enabled the Hawks to stay in the game.

However, some consistent shooting from the Royals from inside kept the Hawks at bay, despite scores from Dan Cohen and Rimantas Norkelinas.

At the end of the first quarter the Hawks trailed 24-19.

An early Cohen basket was all the visitors had to show for the second quarter as the Royals stayed just ahead, until some excellent long distance shooting from Niaz sparked a 12-4 run with a treble of three pointers.

The run gave the Hawks their first lead of the game, with the score close at 35-33 at the end of the first half.

Sloppy

In the third quarter, the Hawks struggled to carry over the momentum from the previous quarter.

Poor passing and sloppy turnovers allowed the Royals to regain the lead.

Despite scores from Tom White and Norkelinas, foul trouble to the Hawks' big men meant they had to take a seat.

With only five points managed in the third quarter, the Hawks trailed 57-40 at the end of this period.

In the fourth quarter, the Hawks regained some confidence from Cohen and White scores.

Stuart Burgess and Jimmy Fuhrmann were also able to get on the scoreboard, as the Hawks came swooping back into the game.

However, with the game back down to a single digit lead, the Royals applied some defensive pressure, which led to a breakaway slam dunk that rattled not only the hoop, but the Hawks' confidence late in the game.

A 12-0 run by the Royals sealed a 77-52 victory.

HARLOW HAWKS: Niaz (17pts), Hinds (11pts), Norkelinas (8pts), White (8pts), Fuhrmann (4pts), Burgess (2pts), Friedner (2pts), Morris, Rozgonyuk.

Harlow 6
Old Southendians IV 2

A HOME victory over third-placed Brentwood IV this Saturday will leave Harlow 15 points clear of their promotion rivals with 21 points left to play for, for most teams.

But they will have to start much better than they did at home to bottom club Old Southendians last weekend.

The visitors fired two goals inside the opening ten minutes as their route one tactics paid off in spades – and the score was still 2-2 with ten minutes left.

Old Souths came close to a third when a shot was flicked on to a post by keeper Richard Norris before being cleared.

Kim Harvey also made a goal line clearance as Harlow paid for their complacency.

On the stroke of half-time, Harlow halved the deficit when Solo Castillo supplied Andy Boughtwood with a trademark finish.

After the break, Joe Symonds and Luke Krzoska dominated the midfield, allowing Benn Hagger the freedom to push forward.

The hosts equalised when Hagger slammed in a beautifully-crafted move.

With ten minutes to go Harlow finally took the lead.

A great run from striker Adam Ottley, saw Stuart Kirk collect the ball and as the keeper rushed toward him, he exquisitely reverse flicked it up over the custodian and into a top corner of the net in arguably Harlow's best goal this season.

Hagger then went on a solo mazy run from deep in the midfield, skipping past every player in his path before slotting home under the keeper, crushing their opponent's spirited resistance in the process.

Harlow could sense their opponents were starting to crumble as they continued to unleash wave after wave of attacks, culminating in a penalty corner which, after an initial save, was slotted home by Rhys Mace on the rebound.

Within a minute of scoring Harlow had a sixth.

Dispossessing an opponent, right-back Carl Chandler sprinted upfield to collect the ball in the area and rifle home for the hosts' fourth goal in the last ten minutes.

The win means Harlow are eight points clear of second-placed Clacton II and on course for the title in a fantastic season.

Medal joy for Harlow judo pair

Judo

THREE young players from Harlow Judo Club took part in the Northern Home Counties Schools Championships qualifying event held at Mark Hall Sportscentre.

Kane Horsley, ten, who fought up a weight group, battled hard in the Years 6 & 7 category, but narrowly missed out on qualifying for the British Schools Championships to be held in April this year in Sheffield.

He still came away with a well-earned bronze medal.

Owen Lambert, ten, won a gold medal, but will miss out on Sheffield because his Years 4 & 5 section was a non-qualifying competition.

His brother Thomas Lambert, 14, who is now in the Cadet category (aged 14 to 16), battled hard and narrowly missed out on a joint bronze position.

"There was fantastic judo from the players throughout the day," said club spokesperson Foong Lambert.

"Special thanks go to the event organisers, committee members and parents who volunteered in different areas of the event especially before and after the competition."

The club runs a special needs section and has a coach specifically helping disabled judo players.

Canaan makes England debut

HARLOW College student Canaan Solomon travelled to Slovakia to represent England for the first time in an international U20 match against several East European countries.

The 17-year-old followed the pace set by his England team-mate, Michael Williams, over 1500 metres where the pair reached 600m in a super-fast time of 1min 29sec in the capital Bratislava.

Shortly after that Canaan dropped back, but with one 200m lap to go he was sitting comfortably in third place, despite the fact that he usually competes in 800m races.

However, the early pace finally took its toll on Canaan over the last 200m and he ended up in fourth, just inches away from the third-placed athlete.

His time was a new personal best of 3:56.03.

This time ranked Canaan third in the UK for U20 men.

He next races at Sheffield in two weeks' time in the UK Championships over 800m for U20 men.

John Stow, who coaches Canaan at Woodford Green & Essex Ladies Athletic Club, said: "This trip would have done Canaan the world of good and will continue to help his confidence as he now prepares for the Sheffield meet."

Canadians the key for Ladies

HARLOW Ladies suffered a narrow 7-0 loss at Chelmsford in the women's rugby National Challenge South East North One on Sunday.

Harlow had held their opponents to 0-0 at the break.

Centres Emma Hancock and Louisa Jenkins ran some great lines off fly-half Tracey Wedd.

But Chelmsford scored a converted try after the break.

Following a perfectly placed kick into Harlow's 5m zone, a strong chase from the hosts enabled them to fall on to the ball and claim a try.

Incredible defence from Harlow's Canadian duo Brittany Stoneman and Kathleen Blake meant that another Chelmsford score was thwarted, with Blake showing tremendous strength to hold the ball up on the line.

Harlow coach Neil Boggas said: "It was great to see how well some of the girls are coming forward in their playing skills and abilities after having many new players join the squad this season."

'Second's still up for grabs'

■ From back page

home to Stowmarket a week on Saturday.

Former Clapton first team coach Danny Elmer said: "We're proud of our boys. To get the win was the most important thing but this is good for our points difference."

"We turned it around in the second half. Harlow did not look in it in the second half, which was surprising. Their forwards looked tired. I know they had lost a couple of forwards in the week."

"We still have to go to Old Cooperians away and that's going to be our biggest challenge. We are ready to go up another league."

Knight nurses need to share Hawks' scoring

Assistant boss tells side to take pressure off hot duo

Ryman North

Harlow Tn 3
AFC Hornchurch 1

ASSISTANT boss Spencer Knight is loving the race to be Hawks top scorer this season – but now wants other players to chip in with more.

Junior Dadson's double took him clear of Harlow Town's perennial top scorer Alex Read on 23 goals already this season after Saturday's impressive 3-1 win over second-placed AFC Hornchurch.

Read was on 21 after drawing a rare blank on Saturday.

Knight said: "There's healthy competition between Junior Dadson and Alex Read [to be top scorer]. In previous seasons we have relied on Alex too much."

"It's good that we are getting lots of goals. We need goals from other areas. [Joe] Benjamin needs to pop up with a couple of goals and Ryan Melaugh as well."

"If you've got a pair of strikers getting 50 goals you are not going to be far away – especially with the defence we have got."

"That's the big difference for me from last season. Maybe we haven't scored as many but we are much more solid: the goalkeeper and the two centre-halves have been spot on."

Harlow took the lead after 12 minutes. Man of the match Benjamin latched on to a long ball forward, left Urchins right-back Billy Coyne trailing in his wake before cutting it back for Dadson to tap home from a yard out.

But the visitors equalised from the spot on 18 minutes. The division's leading goalscorer, George Purcell, burst clear and was brought down by Ibrahima Sonko.

The striker picked himself up to blast the penalty down the centre, past keeper Dave Hughes.

Just before half-time the Hawks regained the lead. Mario Noto unleashed a piledriver of a shot that flew across goal and into a top far corner.

After a chess-like second half, Harlow put the match beyond doubt with a third on 81 minutes.

Danger area

Fabion Simms flicked the ball into the danger area and Dadson was on hand to volley home, leaving Hornchurch keeper Sam Mott with no chance.

It was Harlow's eighth win on the trot.

Knight added: "They were unbeaten like we were coming into the game. The players they have got, we always knew it would be one of the toughest ones and if we finish above them then we will have done really well."

"To win 3-1, we were really pleased. It was a professional performance from us. We got in front and then conceded a penalty that was avoidable."

"Second half we came out and dominated the half and got the goals that we deserved to go on and win the game. It was a big three points for us."

TOURNAMENT TRIUMPH: Ridsen Wood and Langley Colts teams with their medals

Tournament on artificial pitch eases postponement woes

THE wet and freezing weather has been the bane of junior and senior football teams over the last month.

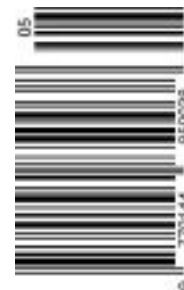

But three Harlow U10 teams beat the elements which caused hundreds of postponements because of waterlogged pitches, by moving to artificial pitches at Shooter's Football in North Weald and holding an impromptu tournament.

More than 40 boys from Ridsen

Wood Youth, Langley Colts (Stallions and Trojans) and Kelvedon Hatch took part.

Robert Sack, from Ridsen Wood Youth, said: "They had great fun playing in a round robin series of games – loads of tackles, passes, saves and goals for everyone to enjoy, the sun even came out as well."

The boys were awarded medals, which made up for the vacant weekends of late.

TEN OUT OF TEN TARGET FOR HAWKS

'No complacency' as run goes on

Ryman North
Thurrock 1
Harlow Tn 2

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman has warned his side not to be complacent as they search for a tenth successive victory away to Heybridge Swifts on Saturday.

Harlow Town made it nine wins in a row, to move up to fourth in Ryman North, when they won 2-1 at promotion-chasing Thurrock on Tuesday.

The victory equalled the nine-match winning run Harlow went on between mid-February and early April last season.

Chapman said: "We have got to get prepared for Saturday physically and mentally, because the last two games have been physically and mentally draining."

"We have got to go to Heybridge on Saturday and make sure we don't slip up."

"The teams at the bottom are sometimes harder to beat than the teams at the top. Heybridge beat [fifth-placed] Cray last week. We will have to be ready."

The departure of two midfielders has left Harlow light and Chapman hopes to bring in two new signings imminently.

Shane Stamp has quit football to concentrate on his career, while Dejaune Taylor-Crossdale has left the club.

"At the moment the squad is coping but we are looking to bring in a couple of players to give us that depth. If we have any injuries we could be in a sticky situation," he said.

After the weekend, Harlow host Wroxham on Tuesday in Ryman North.

Goals from Junior Dadson, his 24th of the season, and Alex Read (pictured right), just behind on 22 now, had given the visitors a commanding first-half lead.

Thurrock pulled one back but Harlow held on and fully deserved the three points to extend their fantastic run.

The hosts contained former Hawks skipper Dave Cowley, Rhys Madden and Michael Toner all lined up against their old side.

Harlow got off to a great start with a goal on seven minutes when Dadson's effort from 20 yards out took a wicked deflection off Lewis Clark and wrong-footed keeper Madden, bouncing over his head and into the net.

Read was denied in a one-on-one by Madden when he should really have made it 2-0.

Hawks left-back Layne Eadie's fantastic run down the left flank saw him cross from the byline but Piers Wixon's looping header could not beat Madden on 25 minutes.

Slimline

Harlow got the second goal their first-half efforts deserved on 40 minutes.

The new slimline Joe Benjamin, impressing down that left flank, stormed into the box and drove a shot towards the right post, just beating the last Thurrock defender, where Read was lurking to stab across goal and into the opposite corner.

Read teed up Dadson just before the break. He was through with just the keeper to beat but blasted it at Madden's feet.

After a quiet start to the second half the game came alive when the hosts halved the deficit on 56 minutes.

Ronnie Winn headed in from Cowley's cross from the right to the edge of the six-yard box.

Read blazed a shot from eight yards over the bar following a silly back pass from Thurrock midfielder Joe Christou.

Just a moment later sub Leon Antoine was through on the right side of the box, but his powerful shot was superbly tipped on to the bar by Madden.

Read was again denied by the excellent Madden with 15 minutes left.

Despite some tense moments near the end Harlow held on to three more points.

Chapman added: "We missed some great opportunities to put the game to bed."

"It's one of those that if you get the next goal it's going to be a comfortable game, but if they get it it's going to be a hard game."

"We had to make sure we rode the storm out. It's another win and that's fantastic."

"They have got no pace at all and every time we got balls behind them we felt we were going to score."

Chapman's assistant Spencer Knight added: "They [Thurrock and Hornchurch] will definitely be in the top five come the end of the season."

"We'd have taken four points from these games, so to get six is superb."

'Second's still up for grabs' – Woodington

SCRUM-half Charlie Woodington refused to call time on Harlow's promotion bid despite a heavy derby loss at neighbours Epping Upper Clapton.

The 28-5 reverse (see page 78 for match report) left the Rams in fourth and 14 points behind the Thornwood Common-based Division Three North East leaders.

With the top two earning automatic promotion this season, Harlow might need Clapton to do them a favour by beating second-placed Old Cooperians away on April 2, which could decide the destination of the title.

Although Lee Harron's men will need at least another defeat for Cooperians, as well as extra bonus points to bridge that 12-point deficit with only six games left.

Woodington said: "We are still in that breakaway group of four teams: us, Clapton, Old Cooperians and West Norfolk."

Up for grabs

"The second place is up for grabs if we can keep ourselves in there. We will take it week by week."

Commenting on his yellow card right at the end of the first half, a crucial decision, he said: "I don't think I was anywhere near the ball. He [the referee] said it was a team offence so he had to give it to someone."

"We thought the first half was going to be the worst, but we didn't really react to the ref."

"If you are against a top team in the league and you're playing 20 minutes of the game with 14 it's going to tell."

"They made the most of the few mistakes. We didn't make the most of the chances we had."

"It was a well-worked try from our 22. We kind of hoped that that would make a platform but we didn't get going. We need to manage the game better."

"If that's how he is going to ref the game, we need to react to that. Every referee is going to ref differently."
